BROAD STREET CHURCH OF CHRIST

VOL. XXXVI I NO. 23

From Where I Sit . . .

“Vacation Days Bring Vacation Bible School Days!!”

Some of my happiest childhood memories are of attending Vacation Bible School. I’m not sure I can even remember the first one I went to, but I distinctly remember that by 4th Grade I was a regular attender. Dad preached in Resaca, Georgia and took all our family plus those who would go with us to Dalton for VBS. Elbert Henry was the preacher there at that time. I met up with him several years ago as an adult and we enjoyed reflecting on my memories of that VBS and its influence on my life. He has since then passed on from this life, but his contribution to my mind set about VBS lives on.

The next distinct memory of VBS was up in Battle Creek, Michigan during the summer before 6th Grade; and then in Albany, Georgia the summer before the 7th Grade. Well you get the idea. VBS stands out in my mind both with the year and the place. I won’t bore you with the exciting details I can remember of many of those VBS’s. I can, however, remember even today, some of the lessons we were taught back then. I first became interested in Paul’s missionary journeys through VBS one summer when I was just 11 years old. I have scores of such memories now.

This article is not intended to be about me. It’s about the benefit of enrolling children in Vacation Bible School. Students will learn lessons there which will follow them for a lifetime. There are at least three streams of attitudes about having VBS this day and time. One says that we are just much too busy and should lighten the schedule by leaving them off. The other says that we must have one because we always have and we don’t want to be accused of being the generation that “dropped the ball.” The third is a new breed of VBS planners who truly believe these are life formative experiences and that we ought to go to great extents in our efforts to create learning situations for our children. Thanks be to God there is a renewed energy and zeal that I’m witnessing in churches all over the Southeast, and I hear about from other parts of the United States as well, to provide the most memorable of experiences for the children.

I’m so happy to find that spirit prevailing at Broad Street. I don’t know when I’ve seen so much energy by so many people, carefully organized, and sharing a common love for the boys and girls, both last summer and this summer. Parents, you are in for a treat as you bring your boys and girls to our VBS!! The theme is entitled, “Fearless Journey Through The Bible.” Students will learn through a study of key Bible characters what it really means to stand up for God in a world gone bad. They will learn many Bible verses, and many Bible precepts that should affect how they view the hard times as well as the good times in their lives.

Please support our Vacation Bible School June 8-10, from 5:30 to 8 P. M. each evening. Be sure to register as many of your friends and relatives as you can. I look forward to seeing you and your children in the auditorium for the pre-session Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday evenings!! Meanwhile we’re going on with the exciting Summer Series Wednesday evening from 6:30 to 7:30
