BROAD STREET CHURCH OF CHRIST

VOL. XXXVIII NO. 12

From Where I Sit . . .

“Give Something of Yourself”

Pioneers who have made great contributions to the betterment of mankind did so at great cost to themselves. We think not only of the explorers who discovered unsettled parts of our country, but also of those who dared to act on theories in the fields of science, medicine, benevolent ventures, and other ways of bettering the world we live in. All these who led the way paid a price, usually of their time, their freedom to be like everyone else, and even of their financial security.

As a small child I remember a comedian on television named Sam Levenson. Levenson once said, “When my immigrant father came here from the old country, he found out three things: 1) that the streets were not paved with gold; 2) that most of the streets were not paved at all; 3) that if they were going to get paved he would have to help pave them.”

I can’t help but believe there is a great lesson in this for the church today. Church leaders are constantly looking for ways of getting membership involvement. Not any one of us could ever cover enough ground by oneself. We’re dependent on the whole network of members if the church is really going to grow. The church is dependent on that part which each one supplies to the building up of the whole body (Eph. 4:11-16).

Recognizing that not all the work has been done; furthermore, that most of it hasn’t been done yet; and finally that it probably won’t get done if we don’t help; will be the beginning of dynamic church growth. Occasionally we hear someone say, “They ought to fix this,” Or “Why doesn’t someone do something about....”

We’re blessed at the Broad Street congregation with a great number of volunteers who work hours every week beyond what one might expect to make things happen for the Lord’s church. Most of these folks go unmentioned by name and do not perform their service for the purpose of being recognized. I can’t help but think how much more ground we could cover if we could enlist all of the congregation to participate with the same volunteer spirit.

Seeing things as they really are – plus being willing to do something to help – are basic elements in leadership. You will find it easier to maintain the spirit of Christ if you will give something of yourself. Jesus gave His life for the sins of the people. If one ever feels that he’s giving too much he only needs to compare himself to the One who gave it all.

Thank you to all those who are making things happen for the Lord’s cause at Broad Street: our teachers, deacons, ladies’ with group projects, adult volunteers to help with youth projects, food groups, communion preparation, and all those who call, visit, and send cards week by week. This is only part of the whole picture of what helps the church grow. It’s very exciting that we are approaching the week that our students and adult mentors for Lads to Leaders will be leaving for the National Convention. For months now, these students and mentors have been busily preparing themselves for this upcoming celebration. It’s amazing how much year-round work goes on with this program and how many adults and students are actively involved with these work projects. We can’t just point at one program for it takes all the programs and all the members of the whole church who are willing to “Give Something of Yourself” that will determine whether we fulfill the Lord’s purpose for the church to “make known His manifold wisdom...” (Eph. 3:10). Will You give something of yourself to the Master?

. . . . Terry Broome

Please pray for our sick and remember them with cards, calls and visits.

Dear Church Family,

We would like to thank everyone for the cards, calls, and messages we have received since the passing of my mom. She always enjoyed visiting Broad Street and especially appreciated the cards sent during my dad's illness years ago as well as hers. We will treasure the blanket sent by the congregation as a reminder of the wonderful and faithful life she lived.

In Christian Love,
Elijah and Gill

The family sends sincere thanks of your kind expressions of sympathy in the loss of our sister, Yvonne Smith. We deeply appreciate your kindness, prayers, and flowers. Everything will always be remembered.

*If I Should Choose
Of all the things I'm thankful for;
If I could choose just one
To place above all other things
When all is said and done,
I'd choose just this: My God is there
In joy or yet in pain!
My God is there! He walks with me,
Yes, even in the rain;
Not only when the roses bloom,
Not only in the spring;
Not only when the world is gold,
The sun on everything,
But all the time - God's always there,
He's with me day and night;
I cannot wander from His care
Nor leave His precious sight.
